Open Letter from the co-Founders of LaserTag.com.au and Laser Skirmish

LaserTag.com.au and Laser Skirmish would like to state that we have no association with the organisation seen in the media recently; “Urban Assault Skirmish”.

In relation to our own products and services, we believe in responsible hire services, family-friendly events and age-appropriate games.

Laser games have been played in Australia for thirty years in total. Our family-owned business has run fun LaserTag and Laser Skirmish events since 1999.

Up to 50,000 in Queenslanders, and many tens of thousands of people across Australia play our games every year.

As they know, Laser Skirmish is a fun, active game of “high tech hide and seek”. It promotes team work and communication. Because we use team objectives, our groups have fun working together to achieve their goals.

There is no evidence associating Laser Tag games with increases in violence.

In fact, in our experience; when people finish playing our games, they are happy, smiling and laughing. It’s always a positive response!

Yours sincerely,

Nicole Lander & Peter Lander
